Washington and Lee University provides its students with a unique athletic program that allows them to pursue athletic excellence without sacrificing their educational experience.

W&L follows the NCAA Division III guidelines of awarding financial aid based only on family need and academic merit. The result is a strong, diverse program in which participants are motivated by their love of the game and their desire to excel.

Over the years W&L students have been impressive on and off the playing fields. A capsule sketch of that success is listed below:

THE SCHOOL
- Located in historic Lexington, Virginia in the Shenandoah Valley
- Founded in 1749 and is the ninth oldest college in America
- Has an undergraduate enrollment of 1,760 students and a law school with 400 students
- The average class size is just 16 students
- The tuition fee for 2006-07 is $31,175
- The early decision application deadlines are November 15 and January 1, and the regular application deadline is January 15

THE ATHLETIC PROGRAM
- W&L sponsors 23 varsity sports, 12 for men and 11 for women
- All sports compete at the NCAA Division III level and the majority of teams compete in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference
- W&L has won the ODAC Commissioner’s Cup for overall excellence in men’s and women’s athletics 10 of the last 12 years
- In 2005-2006, W&L won 65 percent of its contests and 10 conference championships
- Seventy-nine athletes earned first team all-conference honors last season and 17 were named All-Americans
- 194 athletes were named to receive Scholar-Athlete Awards for achieving at least a 3.500 grade point average in a term last school year
- Since 1970, W&L has had 25 athletes earn prestigious NCAA Postgraduate scholarships
- In the last 25 years, W&L has had 38 athletes earn CoSIDA Academic All-America honors and countless others have been named to CoSIDA Academic All-District teams

THE WRESTLING PROGRAM
- W&L is in its ninth year as a member of the Centennial Conference. The Generals competed as an independent for the previous 17 years.
- Gary Franke enters his 34th season as head coach at W&L and claims a school-record 172 victories.
- Sophomore John Christopher finished third in the 285-pound weight class at the 2006 Centennial Conference Championships.

Entering his 34th season at the helm of the Washington and Lee wrestling program, Head Coach Gary Franke is the longest standing coaches at the University. His 33 seasons of head coaching eclipse the rest of the W&L athletic department.

During his tenure in the coaching ranks, he continues to hone his coaching philosophy and develop theories about what it takes to be a successful program and have a successful career.

Franke is hoping one such theory will hold true this season as his Generals embark on their 2006-07 campaign.

"It's not a hard and fast rule," Franke said. "But, I think when you look at an athlete's career, you'll see that his junior year can be his most successful and promising year. This is not always true, but it's true often enough."

Franke definitely would like to prove that premise this season, as his program holds a stable of juniors, including captain 174-pounder Jesse Sataloff. In fact, this year's squad returns nine juniors, one senior and three sophomores. With 13 returning wrestlers, Franke is confident his squad's experience.

"We are even more experienced than last season," he remarked. "We are certainly looking for a lot of leadership from our upperclassmen, especially the junior class."

Leading the junior class is Sataloff, Anthony Boniello (165-pounds), Kirk Adamson (197-pounds), Erick Gagne (149-pounds), Peter Lawrence (157-pounds) and David Shubick (133-pounds). All of them are expected be the top wrestler in their respective weight classes and carry the squad through the season.

"Jesse was very successful last season," said Franke. "We expect him to continue that success and improve as well."

Sataloff went 16-8 overall and 6-3 in dual matches last season. He finished the season with a team-high 54 takedowns and pinned his opponent on four occasions. He won his weight class at the W&L Invitational and second at the Ursinus Invitational.

Boniello and Adamson return to the mat after they both posted 5-5 dual records as sophomores. Boniello racked up 13 takedowns and 32 escapes, while Adamson notched 11 takedowns and four pins. Gagne finished his second season with six overall wins, while Lawrence went 12-11 overall with 44 takedowns.

Lawrence moved up from 149-pounds and won a competition with junior Tim Manson for the nod at 157-pounds. Manson posted eight wins last season, including three by fall.

"Lawrence has the spot right now," explained Franke. "They had a competitive battle in the preseason and both are quite capable."

Shubick was second-best on 2005-06 squad with 17 individual wins and posted a 5-2 overall record in the Centennial Conference.
"David had a good sophomore season," said Franke. "He is in great shape and it will be interesting to see him compete this season."

While the junior class is the biggest in number, the sophomore class owns the biggest grappler -- heavyweight John Christopher, who is expected to build on a freshman campaign that saw him finish fourth at the conference championships. Christopher ended his rookie season with a team-high 23 wins, 43 takedowns, 37 escapes and a team-best six pins.

"John did some great things as a freshman," Franke recalled. "And he will play a big role in whether or not we are successful this season."

Christopher is not the only sophomore that Franke has high expectations for this season. He also hopes to see big things from Nick Fox (197-pounds) and Rob Terrin (141-pounds). Fox tallied two wins last season, while Terrin had 15 wins and 20 takedowns as freshman. According to Franke, Terrin will battle junior Adam Hockensmith at 141-pounds. Hockensmith had four individual wins last year and also tallied nine takedowns and 15 escapes. Fox's position is also not solidified.

"It is possible that we would have Nick go down a weight class," clarified Franke.

If that were to happen, Fox would join the team's only senior, captain Max Courtney, who is the squad's lone wrestler at 184-pounds. Courtney also finished at .500 last season with a 5-5 record in dual meet appearances. He tallied 14 individual wins along with 18 takedowns and three pins.

"Max looked good last season and continues to improve," said Franke about his lone senior. "His leadership and experience is a important to us this year."

While Franke has 12 returning wrestlers and a near-full roster, he also welcomes eight freshman to the program to compete with his experienced corps. Freshman Sammy Brusca will wrestle at 125-pounds and fills in last open slot not owned by an upperclassman. Brusca was a four-year letterwinner at Georgetown Prep and was a three-time conference champion.

With a roster of 21 competitors, this is the largest squads since the 2000-01 season when the Generals had a slatting of 23 grapplers. Franke hopes that the teams size and experience will be the difference this season, and then he'll find out if his theory was correct.

"Our experience should give us the edge," Franke mulled over. "Our junior class, along with Max Courtney, has the ability to help us reach our goals of improving our conference finish as well as being competitive in invitational competition."
Now entering his 34th season as coach of Washington and Lee's wrestling program, Gary Franke continues to produce talented, winning wrestlers and student-athletes.

Fifteen times in his career, Franke's teams have finished with winning records. He has coached W&L to more wrestling victories than any other coach in school history with 172 wins. Along with the winning seasons, his teams won three Old Dominion Athletic Conference titles.

Through the years, Franke's wrestlers have had great individual success, too. He has coached nine academic All-Americans in the last 20 years as well as one NCAA Post-Graduate Scholarship winner. Franke also coached the first Division III All-American in W&L wrestling history, an honor earned by Rich Redfoot in 1989.

In addition to his responsibilities as wrestling coach, Franke also coached the men's tennis team from 1979 through 2000. In 1988, he coached W&L to the NCAA Division III national tennis championship, the first national championship in school history. He also holds the rank of associate professor of physical education at the University.

A native of Minnesota, Franke is a 1971 graduate of Mankato State University. At Mankato, Franke compiled a school-record 32-match winning streak as a 118-pound wrestler. Following graduation, Franke served as an assistant coach at Army. He joined the W&L staff in the summer of 1973 as head wrestling coach and assistant trainer.

Gary and his wife Linda make their home in Lexington. They have two children, Kara Rae and Ryan.

33 Seasons 172-183-3 (.485)

* - Conference Champions
A former W&L wrestling standout, Rolf Piranian enters his 24th season as an assistant coach for the W&L wrestling team. The Pennsylvania native, who is also the University's head men's soccer coach and an associate professor of physical education, has worked at W&L since the fall of 1976.

Piranian earned two varsity letters in wrestling at W&L and was the 126-pound College Athletic Conference champion. In addition to wrestling, he was a two-year letterman in lacrosse and a four-year letterman and an All-State and All-South honoree in soccer.

As the men’s soccer coach, Piranian is responsible for several of W&L's best seasons ever, including a 19-2 finish in 2000. That squad finished the season ranked eighth nationally. Additionally, Piranian's 1997, 1998 and 2001 teams had outstanding seasons, finishing 11-6, 10-4-3, and 12-4-1 respectively.

Piranian remains involved and committed to working with youth soccer in the community. He is also a top-rated college lacrosse official. Rolf and wife, Diane, make their home in Rockbridge County. Piranian has two adult children - a daughter, Coleen, and son, Mike, who is the assistant coach for the W&L soccer team.

The Washington and Lee wrestling program participates as an associate member of the Centennial Conference where it competes against some of the top athletic and academic institutions in the country. As of the 2005-06 year, W&L is joined in the conference by Kings Point, Stevens Tech, Johns Hopkins, McDaniel, Gettysburg, Muhlenberg and Ursinus.

W&L joined the conference in 1998 after participating as an independent for 17 years.

Entering its 14th year of competition, the Centennial Conference has taken its place among the nation’s elite small college conferences.

On June 4, 1981, Keith Spalding, then-president of Franklin & Marshall College, made the announcement that “eight private colleges found it timely and appropriate to form a round-robin football schedule among institutions with similar attitudes and practices in intercollegiate football competition.” With that statement, the Centennial Conference was born.

From 1983-92, the eight private colleges - Dickinson College, Franklin & Marshall College, Gettysburg College, Johns Hopkins University, Muhlenberg College, Swarthmore College, Ursinus College and Western Maryland College - participated in a football-only conference. Because of the success in operating the Centennial Football Conference, the presidents began to study the feasibility of an all-sports conference early in 1991. The presidents received a positive report from an ad hoc committee in March, 1992, which also recommended that Bryn Mawr College, Haverford College and Washington College be invited to join as charter members.

On April 29, 1992, Gordon A. Haaland, president of Gettysburg College and acting chairman of the committee of the original eight presidents, announced the expansion of the Conference to an all-sports conference. He also announced that Bryn Mawr, Haverford and Washington had accepted the invitations to become charter members.

A purpose and mission statement adopted by the presidents stated, “recognizing that our fundamental purpose is the academic mission of institutions, we agree to establish an all-sports conference in the spirit of rationalizing our competition by controlling travel, schedule and costs. The Conference will be controlled by the presidents of the member institutions.”

The Centennial Conference encourages athletic competition among national liberal arts colleges and universities that share similar academic aspirations and a commitment to the importance of the total educational experience of students engaged in sports. Intercollegiate athletics programs are an integral part of the life of the member institutions and flow from their educational objectives. Each institution provides a comprehensive, broad-based athletics program. All varsity sports are treated equitably, and every sport is important.

The Centennial Conference crowns champions in 24 sports and continues to sponsor intercollegiate programs of national prominence for women and men. Soccer, basketball, lacrosse and track and field are just four of the sports in which Centennial schools have been synonymous with national excellence. On the average, Centennial members boast of 19 varsity teams per campus which is well above the national norm.

Washington and Lee hosts its home wrestling matches in the 2,500-seat arena located in the J.W. Warner Center, a five-story athletic complex completed in 1972. The Warner Center gymnasium has served as the host site for two NCAA regional basketball tournaments and an NCAA regional wrestling tournament.

The athletic complex, named for former W&L trustee Jonathan Westervelt Warner (W&L ’40), also features a six-lane swimming pool; team rooms for 18 W&L sports; the Doremus Gymnasium; a fully equipped weight room; an excellent athletic training facility; handball, racketball and squash courts; a baseball batting cage and an equipment room.

The Warner Center also features the A.E. Mathis Wrestling Room, located next to the main gym. The Mathis Wrestling Room measures 60 feet by 30 feet and is where the Generals hold their daily practices. The room is named after W&L wrestling coach Archie Mathis. Mathis coached at W&L from 1925-1942, leading the Generals to nine undefeated seasons.
Chuck O’Connell will serve the 2006-07 school year as Interim Director of Athletics at Washington and Lee, becoming just the sixth athletic director in the school’s history.

O’Connell arrived at W&L in 1973 as assistant professor of physical education, assistant lacrosse and assistant football coach. He was named assistant athletic director in 1983, overseeing the department’s finances, facilities and operations. In 1991, he became the director of physical education and in 2002, he was promoted to senior assistant athletic director.

As assistant football coach from 1973-90, including 13 seasons as defensive coordinator, O’Connell helped guide the Generals to ODAC Championships in 1981 and 1985, while mentoring 16 players to First Team All-Conference honors.

As assistant lacrosse coach from 1974-83, O’Connell helped steer the Generals to six NCAA Division I Tournament berths and 36 players earned USILA Division I All-America honors during his 10 seasons.

Prior to his arrival at W&L, O’Connell served as instructor and assistant football and assistant lacrosse coach at Friends School (1965-67) and St. Paul’s School (1967-73), both located in his native Baltimore.

A 1965 graduate of Denison University, O’Connell was inducted into the school’s athletic hall of fame in 1985 following a stellar playing career with the Big Red. A two-time lacrosse All-American, he is also a member of the Ohio Lacrosse Hall of Fame and the Maryland Lacrosse Club Hall of Fame.

Active on the national stage, O’Connell is a member of the Division III Athletics Administration Association, the National Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) and is the past president of the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association (USILA) and US Lacrosse Coaches Association.
WASHINGTON and LEE UNIVERSITY — a small, private, liberal arts college, is the ninth oldest institution of higher education in America. Founded in 1749, W&L prides itself on the characteristics that have earned its reputation as a place unique and apart in the national educational scene.

The school’s name comes from two of America’s great leaders who saved W&L in times of need. George Washington saved then Liberty Hall Academy from financial ruin in 1796 when he gave the school its first major endowment gift—$50,000 worth of James River Canal stock. The donation—at the time the largest to any educational institution—continues today as part of the endowment.

Robert E. Lee saved then Washington College from obscurity after the Civil War by serving as its innovative president from 1865 until his death in 1870, and instituting such programs as the School of Law, the nation’s first school of journalism, and the revered Honor System that continues to play a major role in W&L life.

More than 95 percent of W&L’s full-time faculty members hold doctorate or other terminal degrees, and all of them are, first and foremost, teachers. And with an average class size of just 16, W&L students clearly benefit from that expertise.

W&L was ranked 14th in the 2006 U.S. News listing of the nation’s top liberal arts colleges, marking the 18th consecutive year that W&L has been ranked as one of the top 25 liberal arts colleges in the nation.

W&L also features a highly-ranked School of Law that has been an integral part of the school since 1866. Approximately 120 students receive Juris Doctor degrees each year and five Master of Laws.

With a student body that represents nearly all 50 states and attracts citizens from 50 other countries, W&L is truly an international institution set in an idyllic college town. USA Today described it this way: “If you close your eyes and conjure up the ideal campus—red brick buildings with rows of white columns, a placid commons beneath the arching branches of ivy-covered trees, a small town of 19th-century storefronts—you’ve got Washington and Lee.”

Washington and Lee University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national or ethnic origin, sex, sexual orientation, age, disability or veteran’s status in its educational programs and activities or with regard to employment.
